Do you miss your LADWP Account Manager? Several years ago, LADWP was forced to discontinue the Major Accounts Group due to budget cuts and strained resources. However, in response to recent activity among our large business customers, we have revived the Major Accounts Team and we are here to serve your business needs. We have scheduled some upcoming water workshops to provide you with topical information, water saving advice, and to introduce you to our team. Come for the continental breakfast. Come to learn what you can do to help your business and the City of Los Angeles during this extended drought. Or just come to meet the team and introduce yourself.
